

Does the title of Director of Religious Exploration and Engagement (DREE) make sense to you in relation to our Strategic Plan and your dreams for the congregation? Please choose a ranking that comes closest to your feeling about this title.

- Blech. Doesn't speak to me at all. Take it back to the drawing board.
- I can live with it, but what's wrong with Director of Religious Education?
- I'm neutral, call it whatever you want a...
- I like it. Seems more expansive than o...
- Love it! It's an exciting way to describ...
- I love "Exploration". We should only u...
- love the "exploration" part in particular...
- Instead of "Religious" what about "Spi...

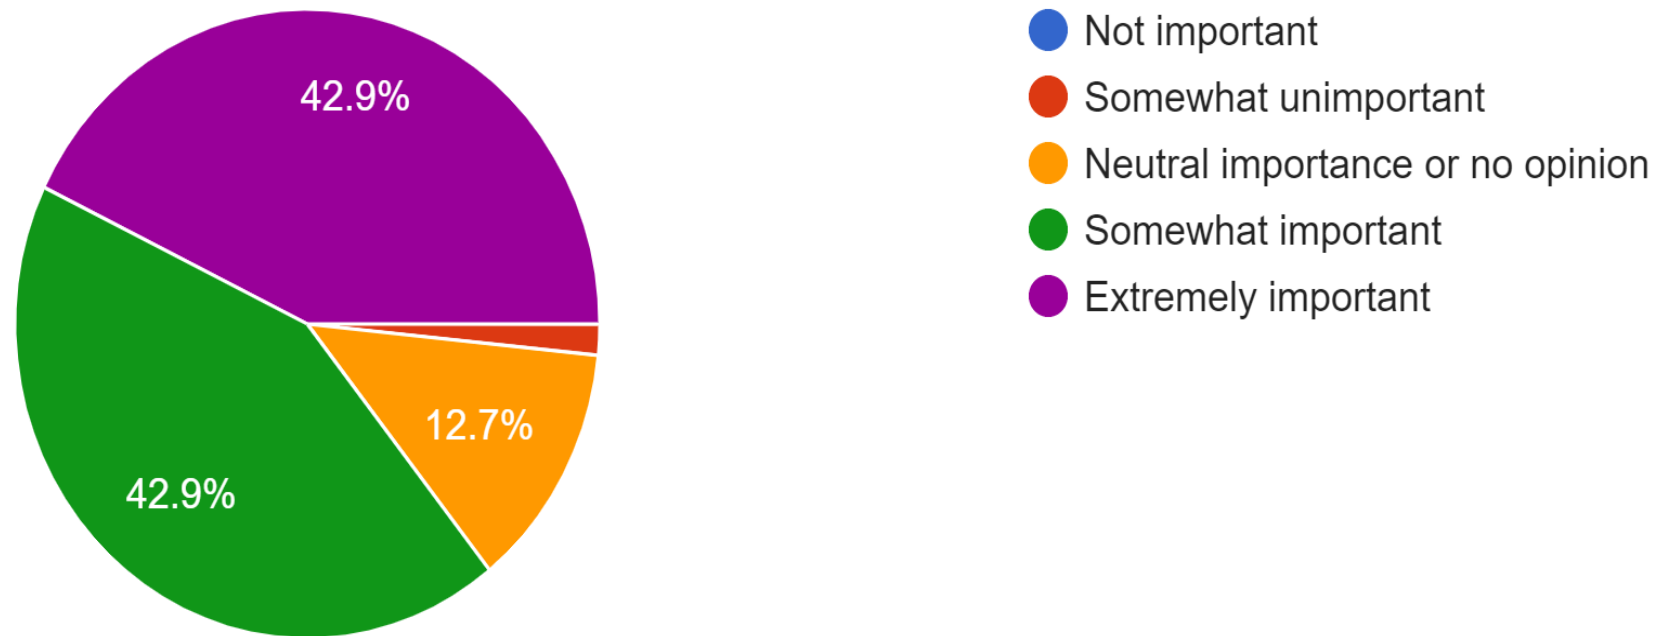

Developing creative learning and engagement opportunities for children, youth and families that reflect our UU values and our commitments to social justice and anti-racism.

63 responses

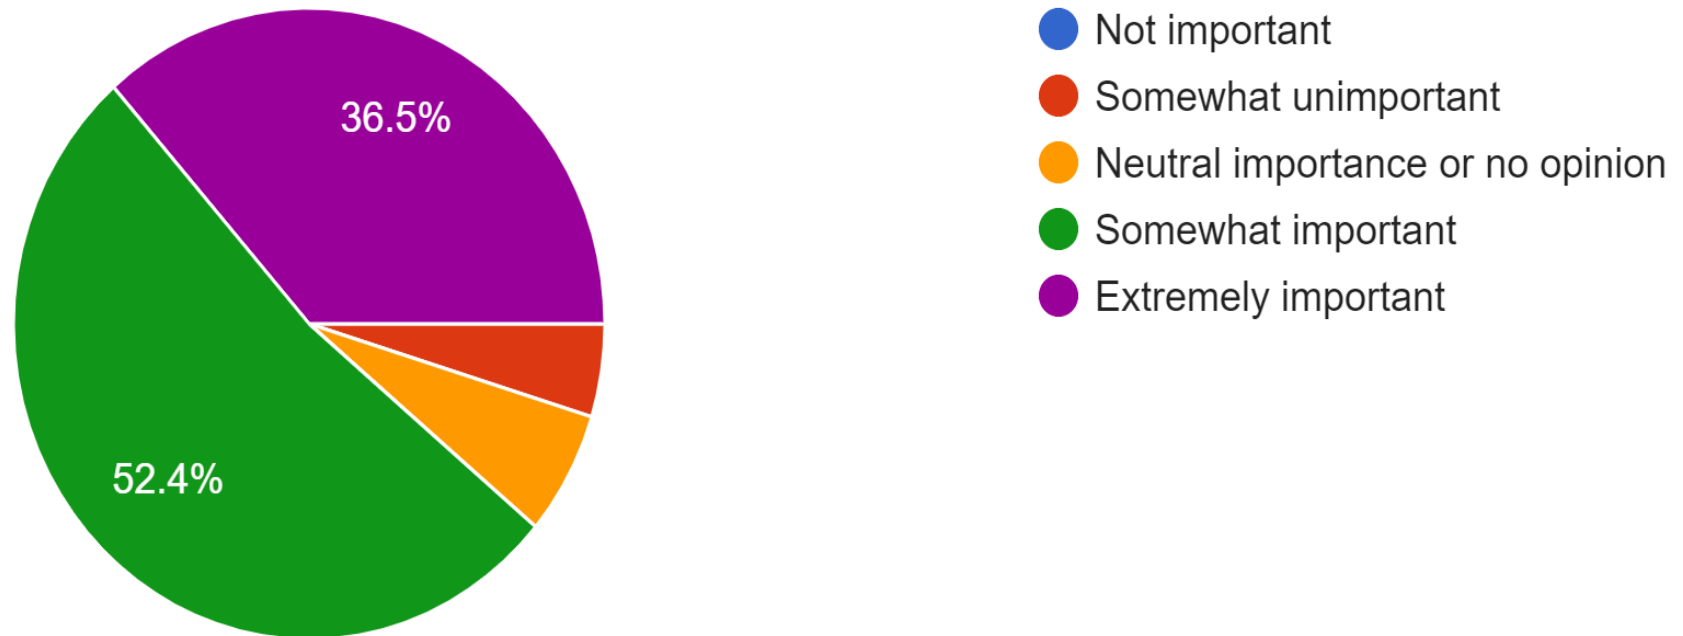

Creating opportunities for relationship building among families, teachers and parents outside of Sunday mornings as well as providing support for parents and families.

63 responses

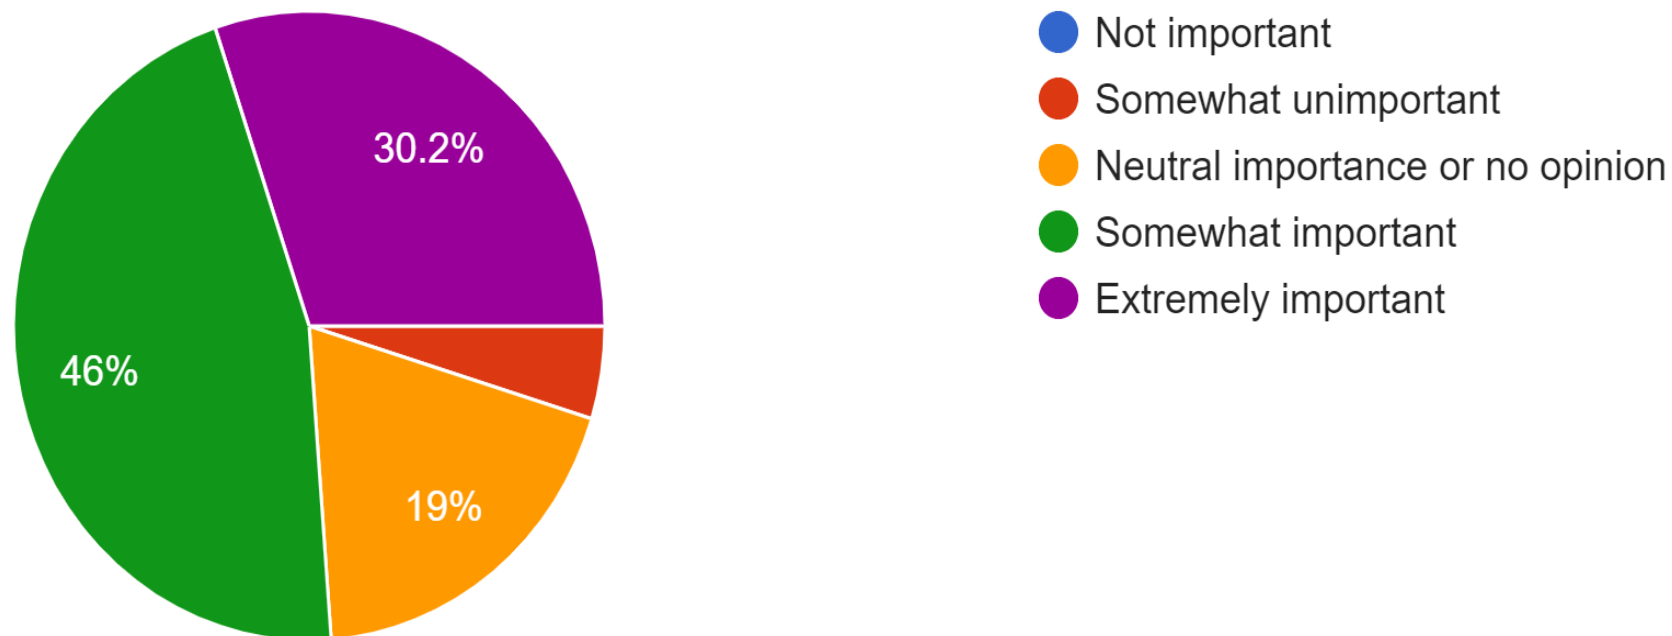

Creatively including children, youth and families in worship services and their planning.

63 responses

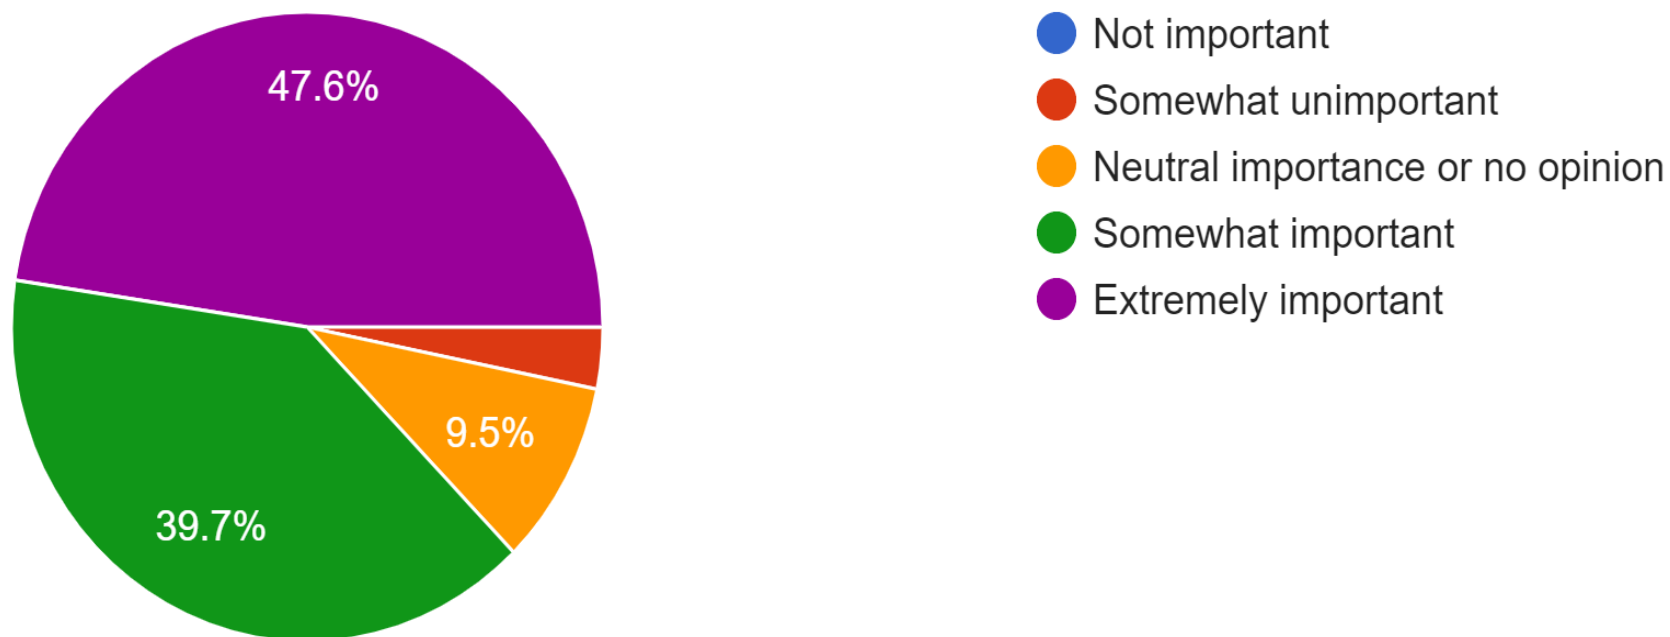

Participating in services and service planning as a member of the Staff Worship Team.

63 responses

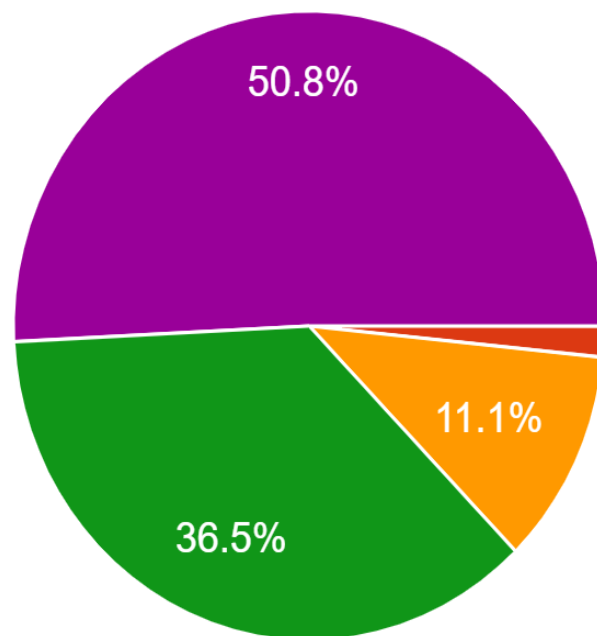

Encouraging youth to develop leadership by serving as mentors and models for younger children.

63 responses

Collaborating with UUCUC social justice groups to include children and youth in their activities.

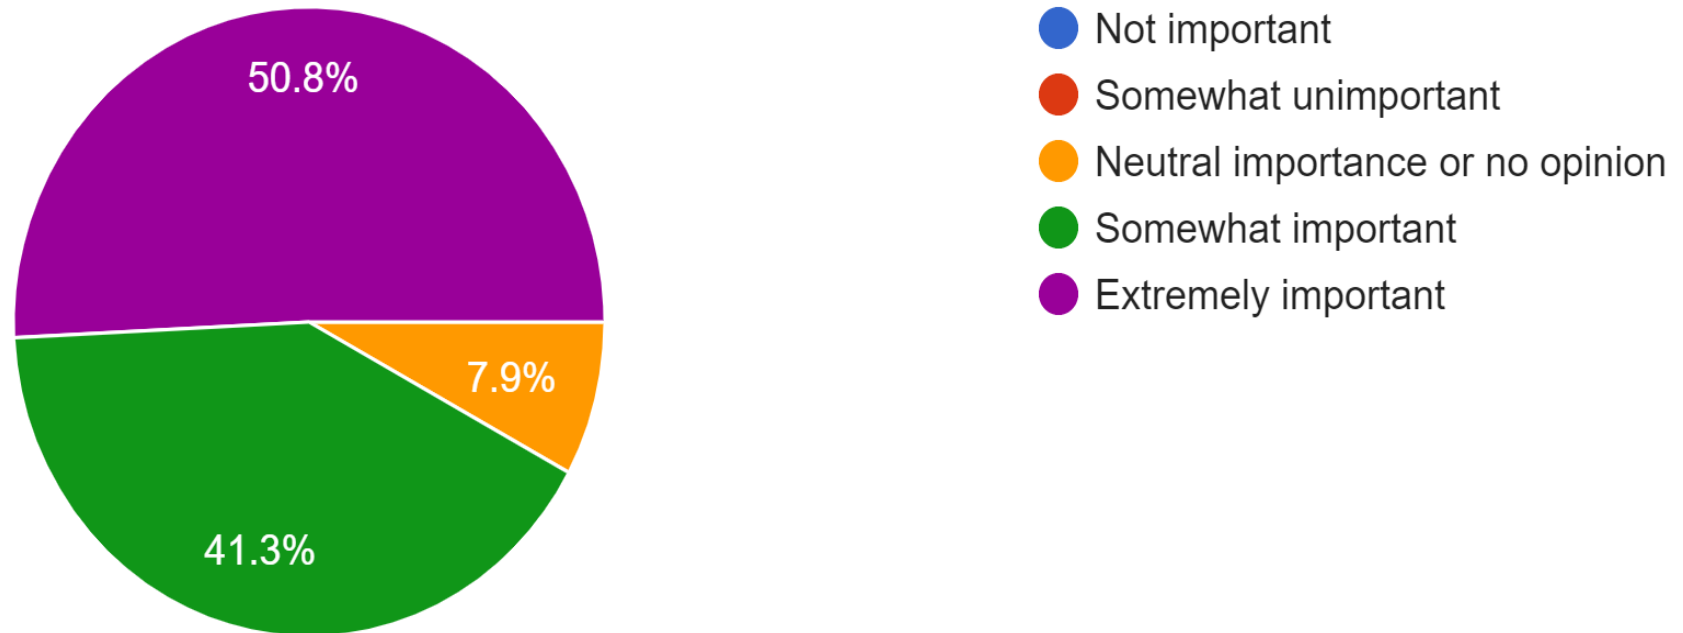

63 responses

- Not important
- Somewhat unimportant
- Neutral importance or no opinion
- Somewhat important
- Extremely important

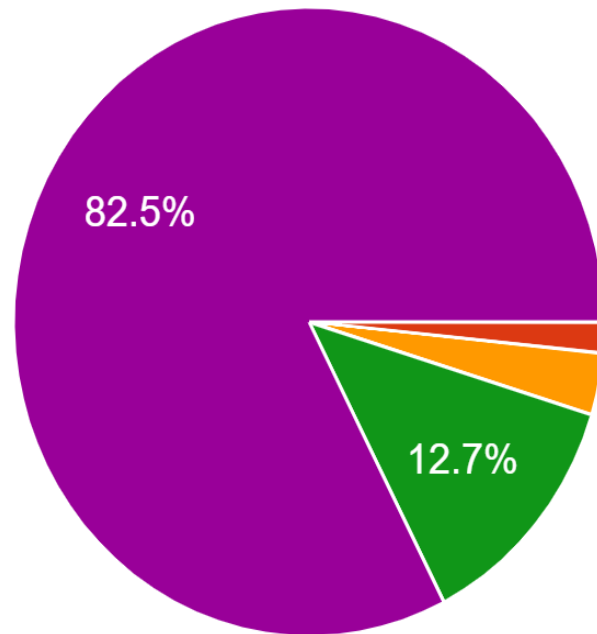

Collaborating with ministers and volunteer Adult RE leaders in the development of curricula for adults.

63 responses

Recruiting, supporting, and supervising the Youth Coordinator, DREE Assistant and other RE staff, teachers, and volunteers.

63 responses

- Not important
- Somewhat unimportant
- Neutral importance or no opinion
- Somewhat important
- Extremely important